an important managerial challenge is choosing the payoff horizon for strategic investments since projects with long run benefits have immediate costs that reduce short run profits my dissertation draws from the behavioral theory of the firm and agency theory to explain differences in payoff horizon choices between firms based on performance relative to aspirations incentive compensation and external market pressure i also test the intuition that long horizon investments have a positive impact on long run performance the business model for cable operators during its programming variety phase from 1972 1996 offers a quasi experimental setting ideally suited for research into these issues like public utilities local cable companies are natural monopolies with single providers in each market unlike electricity heat or water service however there is neither a mandate for universal service nor municipal financing for capital investments furthermore the distribution technology of microwave and later satellite eliminate the need for single firms to serve contiguous geographic regions and the industry s pre 1972 history as a broadcast retransmission service contributed to a particularly disparate pattern of geographic expansion as a result cable operators during the research period do not compete with each other for market share among customers but they do compete over future growth through their choice of investments these investments have varying payoff horizons in testing predictions about which firms pursue longer or shorter payoff horizons i use simultaneous equation techniques to assess the impact of short and long horizon investments on ex post performance i use dynamic panel modeling that allows the direction and significance of investment choices to be interpreted at different lag lengths what makes firms choose different payoff horizons are longer horizon investments associated with higher eventual performance as conventional wisdom suggests the first question is central to understanding firm strategy while the second is crucial for evaluating that strategy by addressing both my dissertation generates corporate governance implications and insight into the value creation potential of longer payoff horizons in addition it analyzes the causes and effects of the wide heterogeneity of firm strategies observed in the partially regulated and monopolistic cable industry <http://cablecenter.org/education/awards/2006grantwinner.cfm> as viewed on 08 18 08

this study proposes a multilateralist method of choice of law in order to alleviate the great disarray that currently exists in american choice law in the early 20th century there was a fairly uniform multilateralist method of choice law in the 1920s and 30s however scholars and courts began to reject this method viewed as too mechanical the method sometimes resulted in the choice of law of a state with only a tenuous connection to the controversy currently state courts use four different approaches to choice law with numerous material variations this study rejects these approaches on normative constitutional and practical grounds instead it advocates that courts adopt a multilateralist approach to choice of law that is forum and content neutral and that respects the rights of both individuals and states the study also argues that such an approach should satisfy a constitutional standard that requires a court not choose one state's law when another state has a significantly closer connection to controversy the proposed method consists of two parts the first part determines the states that have created legal relations applying to the dispute when more than one state has created a legal relation applying to the dispute when more than one state has created a legal relation that applies to the controversy the second part adopts the law of the state that had the closest connection the study then applies the suggested method to numerous choice of law problems this book focuses on the subject of choice of law as a whole and provides an analysis of its various rules principles doctrines and concepts it offers a conceptual account of choice of law called choice equality foundation cef which aims to flesh out the normative basis of the subject the author reveals that despite the multiplicity of titles and labels within the myriad choice of law rules and practices of the u s canadian european australian and other systems many of them effectively confirm and crystallize cef's vision of the subject this alignment signifies the necessarily intimate relationship between theory and practice by which the normative underpinnings of cef are deeply embedded and reflected in actual practical reality among other things this book provides a justification of the nature and limits of such popular principles as party autonomy most significant relationship and closest connection it also discusses such topics as the actual operation of public policy doctrine in domestic courts and the relation between the notion of international human rights and international commercial dealings and makes some suggestions about the ability of traditional rules to cope with the advancing challenges of the digital age and the internet this book compares and explains the approaches taken by asian courts when choice of forum clauses in international commercial contracts are challenged in litigation it examines key common law jurisdictions singapore hong kong and malaysia civil law jurisdictions china japan and indonesia and hybrid jurisdictions the philippines with asia s ascent in cross border trade and investment alongside a corresponding increase in cross border litigation understanding how asian courts address choice of forum clauses in international commercial contracts has never been more critical employing a comparative law method the book identifies and explains the relief and remedies used by asian courts in enforcing choice of forum clauses analysing how their classification as either contractual or procedural in nature shapes judicial approaches it further distinguishes choice of forum clauses from arbitration agreements and explores their interaction with other contractual provisions party autonomy as the parties freedom to determine the contents of the choice of forum clause and the freedom to control the flow of litigation is also critically scrutinised furthermore the book investigates the factors courts consider in resolving key choice of forum clause issues ie enforceability specific relief to be granted existence validity interpretation of choice of forum clauses role of mandatory rules public policy and international interests and explores the prospects for future development of this area of law in asia crucially the book highlights the unique approaches of asian courts while underscoring the differences and similarities among common law civil law and hybrid jurisdictions
